TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB HONORS NEW PRESIDENT AT AN OVERFLOWING MEETING

Large Proportion of Seven Hundred Members Attend Gathering of Glendale's Largest Club and Fill Masonic Hall

RECEIPTS FROM SUMMER BENEFITS ARE $865.80

Fifty-two Life Members Are Reported by Committee and Hope of Securing as Many More Is Expressed

Tuesday afternoon was eventful for the Tuesday Afternoon club in that it brought together a large proportion of its membership of 700 women and welcomed its new president, Mrs. Daniel Campbell, who received a floral shower of most beautiful bouquets of chrysanthemums and dahlias at the close of her inaugural "message," in which she reviewed the many reasons she had for pride in her club and in the office she had been asked to fill. The full text of the address will be found on an inside page.

In the receiving line to greet members as they arrived were Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, first vice president; Mrs. C. W. Houston second vice president; Mrs. H. E. Bartlett; Mrs. J. T. Crampton; Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward; Mrs. Andrew P. Findlay.

In the hall receiving the dues of members and giving out books were Mrs. Frank Ayars, corresponding secretary; Mrs. M. E. Plasterer,treasurer; and Mrs. John Robert White. Mrs. O. E. Von Oven director and Mrs John Dunn secretary, were absent because of illness.

When the meting was called to order, Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, a former president, was introduced as secretary pro tem, and read the minutes of the final meeting last spring.

Mrs. Lilian Dow led in a salute to the flag, and Miss Isabel Tousey, a high school pupil, addressed the club for a few minutes on the high school bond issue to be voted upon October 20, reading a statement prepared by the high school board of trustees setting forth the urgent need of adequate accommodations.

A list of 26 applicants for membership was read and Mrs. W. E. Evans, general curator, announced section meetings, in that connection mentioning that the Bible Section had been unable to secure Miss Winifred Rouzee to direct its work because she is going abroad, but had secured a Mrs. Johnson whom she recommended.

Mrs A. H. Montgomery, first vice president, submitted a report of money making activities carried on during the summer prefacing it with announcements of features of the proposed Society Circus to be given in the Elks Club House.

Her report of receipts from club benefits, follows:

Beefsteak dinner at the home of Mrs. Campbell, $102.95; Pendroy Sale percentage, $125.; Concession at Credit Men's Picnic, $93.30; Fashion Show given by Mrs. Pendroy $232.; Money from pledges. $35.; check from Mrs. Campbell $2.30, Hollywood Bowl concert arranged by Miss Cleophas, $20; chain of teaparties given by club members $252.; cash $3.; making a total of $865. 80.

Mrs. Montgomery then tendered the treasurer Mrs. Plasterer a check for $800.; stating the board had instructed her to retain the balance to be used for purchases in connection with the Society Circus. Applause followed the tender of the check, and Mrs. Montgomery was given a rising vote of thanks.

Members of the life membership committee composed of Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, Mrs. Andrew Findlay and Mrs. A. M. Hunt were called to the platform and Mrs. Findlay read the names of 52 members who had subscribed $100 each for a life membership, stating that the committee hoped and expected to bring the list to 100 before the cornerstone is laid in the new club house.

Mrs. C. W. Houston, chairman of finance for furnishing the new club house, told of plans to finance the seating of the auditorium by giving members a chance to endow chairs at $5. each and have their names engraved on plates placed on the backs of the chairs.

Mrs. John Robert White submitted amendments to the constitution she would offer at the meeting October 24 one relating to an increase in club dues.

The program of the day was then given and included besides the president's message, several charming harp solos by Mrs. Enona Hopkins, two numbers by the Nevin Quartett composed of Mesdames Charles A. Parker, A. M. Draper, John Cole and Frank Arnold, with Miss Champlain at the piano, and Mrs. Hopkins at the harp, one of the numbers being "Barcarole" from the "Love Tales of Hoffman", the other "In May" by Parker. Mrs Arnold and Mrs. Parker also sang in duet "My Mother Dear."

BOARD SOLVES PUPIL TRANSFER PROBLEM

Members of the board of education met Tuesday evening and transacted considerable business, the action of outstanding interest being a vote to move a bungalow from the Columbus avenue school to the grounds at Pacific avenue campus to take care of the overflow from certain grades there instead of transporting pupils to Columbus avenue, as planned. This action was taken at the suggestion of a quartette of fathers from the Pacific avenue district, viz., Messrs. Adams, Walter M. Stamps, Joseph A. Dunklin and Fred Gilliland, who appeared before the board and objected to the transportation of their children to another school. The board was also influenced by a letter from the P. E. Railway company stating it would be unable to honor school tickets on bus lines because they have never paid operating expenses on the present fares. The best rate it could offer would be 6c. Under this plan the sewing department at Columbus, which has been using the bungalow, will be transferred to another room which is available.

As a result of visits of inspection to the Grand View school, the Glendale avenue intermediate and the Columbus avenue addition, the board voted to accept the Grand View and Columbus schools and the intermediate condtionally on the completion of certain minor details.

The appointment of Miss Marian Hammes as teacher of the kindergarten at Magnolia school, of Mrs. Lois Duncan Cate as assistant kindergarten teacher at Columbus and of Miss Mabel G. Nisbet as part time teacaer of sewing were confirmed and Mr. White was authorized to find a substiute teacher in Spanish to take the place of Miss Gertrude Grider at the Glendale avenue intermediate, who is ill.

The selection of a school nurse was referred to the teachers' committee composed of Mesdames Brown and Barton.

The Red Cross was given permission to distribute literature on its membership drive in the public schools.

Superintendent White reported a survey made by him to determine the number of children of school age unable to attend school because of physical disability. This survey was ordered because of the request made by members of the Rotary club for the board to take over the instruction of such shutins which has heretofore been financed by the club. He stated that a number were found to be only temporarily disabled, others were mentally defective and still others afflicted with deafness or other disabilities which make them ineligible to normal teaching. He was instructed to continue the survey, eliminating such cases, and report to the board at a later meeting.

The board authorized the transfer of the A-2 class from the Magnolia avenue school to the Cerritos avenue building on the ground that the teacher, Miss Saxton, has too many classes for the number of pupils in the school. With this transfer she will still have three classes for the most part small children difficult to handle.

The board voted to accept the invitation of officials of the Grand View P. T. A. to attend a community social in the nature of a housewarming at that school for principals and teachers Friday evening, October 13, at 8 p. m.

WATCH YOUR CAR

A car valued at $15 and belonging to Mrs. E. M. Goodwin of 247 San Fernando road, was stolen from an automobile while parked before the Glendale Research Hospital, yesterday. No trace has been found of the missing article.

THE WEATHER

Southern California: Tonight and Thursday generally fair.

Los Angeles and vicinity: Fair and moderately cool tonight and Thursday, with clouds in the morning.

PRIZE BABIES OF THE VERDUGO HILLS DISTRICT

These are the "best by test" babies of the entire Verdugo Hills district. The proud titles will remain with these children, irrespective of the outcome of the sweepstake held in Los Angeles by the Los Angeles Express.

To win distinction as one of the first six babies in the land of superfine children is an honor that will remain a heritage.

The sixth place carries with it no prize. The distinction of being the best twins is also without reward excepting in the knowledge of supremacy.

SECOND PRIZE

TUJUNGA MAY BE OVER RICH POOL OF OIL

TUJUNGA, Oct. 11.—At a meeting to be held tonight in Monte Vista park, Sunland, prominent geologists will make a favorable report to property owners in this section on the oil possibilities here. Considerable stir has been caused in Tujunga and Sunland, based on the findings of the oil men. There is such faith in the report, that leases have been closed with a number of large property owners with a clause in them which provides for a test well to be drilled within 90 days.

The oil, so the report will state, spreads over the entire floor of the valley and along the foothills of the Verdugos and the mountains opposite them. Included in this area is the 50 acre Palisades Park tract, for which Leo Lang and G. J. are agents, and several other large realty holdings.

It is expected that a rise in realty values will be seen immediately upon the sinking of the first well, and if the geologists are right and there is a great lake of oil underlying the valley, there will be almost no limit to the boom started.

Prominent real estate men here are much interested in the development and the whole valley is all set to wake up some morning a few months hence and find itself wealthy.

PEACE ARMISTICE SIGNED IN EAST

MUDANIA, Oct. 11.—The Near Eastern armistice was signed by the allies at 6:35 this morning.

The final meeting of the Mudania conference lasted but ten minutes.

The armistice terms represented the utmost concessions the western powers would make to the Turks.

Previous to the conclusion of the armistice parley, Sir Charles Harington, British commander in chief, notified Ismet Pasha that the protocol represented the final terms of the allies, as he had the backing of both France and Italy.

Calling of the peace conference, which is designed to bring permanent peace in the Near East, is to come soon.

CHOLERA EPIDEMIC

HONOLULU, T. H., Oct. 11.—Steps to prevent spread of an epidemic of cholera in Japan to America, are being taken, according to Tokio dispatches received here.

ALCOHOL SHIPS TO BE SEIZED

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Foreign vessels which leave their home ports with liquor aboard after October 14 will be subject to seizure if they enter American territorial waters, it was stated today at Chief Appleby's office here.

The White Star liner Horemic, which cleared from Southhampton today with her usual supply of liquor, would be immune, however, and will not be molested when she enters New York, as she left her home port prior to October 14.

TOOL THIEF HERE

The tool thief is still on the job. Arthur Poole, 426½ West Windsor and W. T. Ashton of 610 East Broadway, reported to the Glendale police yesterday that a number of their carpenter tools, valued at about $125 were stolen from the job on which they are working at 556 West South street. Nothing has yet been learned as to the whereabouts of the missing tools.

WEST SIDE ASSOCIATION ENDORSES HAHN PROJECT OF INCREASING ACREAGE

Declares City Will Lose Valuable Opportunity If Offer of More Ground for Patterson Park Is Rejected

MANY COMMITTEES ARE SELECTED

Speakers on Many Amendments and Referendum Measures Are Allowed Time to Debate Their Subjects Before the Meeting

At the meeting of the West Glendale Improvement association in the Pacific avenue schoolhouse Tuesday night a resolution was adopted commending the city council on voting to purchase thirteen additional acres of land adjoining the Patterson avenue park. Arguments for amendments 1 and 3 and for and against amendments 18, 20 and 24 were heard, library, constitution and by-laws, membership and park committees were appointed, and it was decided to hold a special meeting Monday night for the purpose of considering the coming high school bond election and the widening of the Patterson.

The meeting was vigorous from start to finish. There was not a dull moment. The meeting was opened by a resident H. L. Findley, who announced that speakers from Los Angeles and Glendale had been asked to address the meeting on certain amendments that will be voted on in November.

Attorney W. C. Anspaugh spoke briefly and intelligently on Amendments 1 and 3, stating that those were in no way a bonus, but that they had to do simply with a law by which all ex-service men would be loaned money by the government, this to be repaid with interest.

In the debate on the vivisection, chiropractic, and osteopathic amendments, Dr. Ernest Basher, osteopath, Dr. J. C. Forton, chiropractic, and Dr. E. F. Nippert, medical physician, took part. Each presented his case and was allowed a rebuttal.

The committee on by-laws and constitution, which was appointed, consists of the following: L. S. Badour, Rudolph Streit, O. M. Newby, Mrs. Carrie R. Farrell and H. H. Parker.

Library committee, Mrs. S. B. Johnston, Mrs. C. H. Lyon, Mrs. H. W. Yarick.

Park committee, O. M. Newby, Mrs. A. R. Goodall, Mrs. V. C. Anderson.

The park resolution adopted was as follows:

"Whereas the city of Glendale is growing very fast, and land values are advancing equally as fast, and

"Whereas all progressive and forward looking cities are making adequate preparations for parks, and

"Whereas Glendale has been very backward in this respect, and

"Whereas at the present rate of subdivision of acreage within Glendale's boundaries it will soon be impossible to obtain acreage for park purposes except at excessive prices and by condemning expensive private improvements, therefore be it

"Resolved, by the West Glendale Improvement association that we commend heartily the action of the city council in voting on Thursday evening, October 5, to purchase of the Hahne estate, 13 acres adjacent and lying between the Patterson avenue park and the Burbank car line for the sum of $10,000, thereby showing foresight and good business sense."

STUDENTS TO AID IN BOND ELECTION

A meeting of the high school trustees was held Tuesday night at which the board agreed to permit promotion work by students on behalf of the high school bond issue, on which a vote is to be taken October 20th., the students having asked to help in a variety of ways in the education of the public relative to the need for an adequate high school plant on the new site.

A contract was voted to the Bentley-Schoeneman company for the resurfacing of the composition roofs on three of the buildings on the present high school campus.

HALF MILLION SEWER OUTFALL PROPOSED

Tentative figures of cost of sewage disposal were reached between the sanitation committee of the Los Angeles council and members of the Glendale council and others Monday. The Glendale delegation requested that the Los Angeles council make this city a proposition of cost for use of the proposed outfall sewer. One of the members of the sanitation committee thought Glendale should make Los Angeles a proposition. The Glendale delegation responded that this city has nothing to work on. The members of the committee stated that they would refer the matter to the various heads of departments of Los Angeles city. Knowlton of Los Angeles presented a number of plans of the present sewer system of Los Angeles and the proposed system. He stated that he thought Glendale's cost would be something between $300,000 and $500,000 and that it would be between six and seven years before connection could actually be effected. The Los Angeles officials were evasive.

BAD GUN MAN CAPTURED BY POLICE HERE

"Pinky" O'Brien, Taken by Stein and Royle, Is Wanted

In the arrest in Glendale of "Pinky" O'Brien, several days ago, the police department of this city scored a real hit. It has been learned that "Pinky" is one of the most dangerous gun men to operate in the western part of this country. He was wanted for murder, holdup, highway robbery, and a number of other serious charges in which the automatic played a very prominent part. He is the man who "got away" when the Southern Pacific Owl was held up in Tropico a year or so ago, at which time his comrade was badly injured.

Unfortunately for "Pinky" when the arrest was made he was not entirely clothed and therefore did not have his guns on him. Officers Stein and Royle, who made the arrest, took him unawares. When he was told to throw up his hands the desperado said:

"It's a good thing for you boys that I haven't got my gun on me. If I had they'd take you to the undertaker's, rather than carry me to jail."

"That's all very well," said one of the officers, "just move over in the corner away from the dresser or you'll never see the jail."

CITY COUNCIL TO MEET THIS EVENING

Inter City Conference of Councils Gets Down to Figures

The regular weekly meeting of the Glendale city council will be held tonight (Wednesday) instead of Thursday night, the regular meeting time. Thursday is Columbus day, which is a legal holiday, and in order that there may be no doubt as to the legality of the council proceedings it was thought wise to put the meeting ahead one day.

RECKLESS DRIVER HELD ON BAIL

Grover Trasker of Los Angeles, who was arrested in Glendale Monday night, on a charge of reckless driving, was arraigned before Judge Lowe at 10 o'clock this morning, at which time his hearing was set for 10 o'clock on Tuesday morning, November 17.

A felony charge has been entered against Trasker, in that after he had participated in an accident at the corner of Colorado and San Fernando road, he refused to stop, but continued up San Fernando road toward Burbank. His bail has been set at $1000, which he is endeavoring to secure.

BIG BLIMP IS ENROUTE EAST

PASADENA, Oct. 11.—Promptly at 8:45 last night, Major H. A. Strauss, leaning far over the edge of the car, just as the huge army dirigible C-2 rose into the air, waved a farewell to the officers of Ross field, Arcadia. He said the craft would probably arrive at El Paso about noon today. The motors were in shipshape condition for a record flight on the ship's return to Langley field.

SOLDIERS' BOND BILL ENDORSED

Chamber of Commerce Approves State Loaning Fund Measure

COST STATE NOTHING

Richardson D. White Advocates Measure for Settling State Veterans

Unqualified endorsement was given by the chamber of commerce of Glendale at its forum meeting yesterday noon to Amendments 1 and 2, which will be offered to the California voters at the November election. These amendments have for their object the helping of the ex-service men. Number 1 provides for the loaning of funds for the purchase of farms, while Number 3 had to do with the securing of city homes. If these measures are voted, the lending power of the state will be used to secure money for these ex-service men, every dollar so loaned to be repaid, with interest, by the ex-soldiers to the state.

"These measures are in no way a bonus," said Richardson D. White. "They will not cost the state one penny, but will enable the ex-soldier boy to secure the much-desired farm or city home. There is a feeling abroad that the men who stayed at home during the war for one reason or another got the best of the argument in dollars and cents, and they probably did. The purpose of this measure is to "come back" a little to the soldier boy, and thereby eliminate this feeling as much as possible.

"This measure tends to provide more home owners in California, and that is what we need. Home owners are the best class of citizens. They are the fellows who take an interest in their country and in the upholding of its laws."

The matter of the chamber assisting in financing the band concerts by the Elks band came up through a communication from C. M. Burke, manager of the band. In explanation of this matter City Manager Reeves explained that the band boys had raised a sum of $50 per week for this purpose, and that the city council contributed a like amount. An additional sum of $25 is needed to carry on the concerts and the chamber was asked to contribute toward this amount. The matter was laid over for one week.

TOM MIX ON SKY TOUR AT THE GLENDALE

Tom Mix speeds along at about sixty miles an hour in the latest William Fox picture, "Chasing the Moon," which will be shown at the Glendale theater today, tomorrow and Friday for the first time. He begins as a bored millionaire, gets into a wild time with his friends, the cowboys, speeds away on horseback, in a motor car, on motorcycle, and then by swimming and a motorboat pursuit climbs aboard a steamship bound for Russia, fights bandits, rescues a princess and turns the bandits dizzy with his speed. And all this because he is trying to reach a doctor who has the antidote for a poison he believes is in his system. His sweetheart follows him, catches up with him in Spain, and prevents him taking the antidote—which would have killed him because he never had been poisoned.

FREDERICK THE GREAT

(Frederick II.) of Prussia acceded to the throne of Prussia in 1740 (1740-1786). When Maria Teresa inherited the domains of the Hapsburgs from her father, Emperor Charles VI. (died in 1740), Frederick the Great seized Silesia by occupying Breslau. France and Bavaria then attacked Austria for gain, but were driven back. Prussia was ceded Silesia as an inducement to retire from the war, which was called the "War of the Austrian Succession," and which ended in 1748 in statu quo ante bellum, except in the case of Silesia which was retained by Prussia.

W. B. Kelly, real estate operator here, speaking as president of the Exchange club, stated that that organization would be glad to contribute $5 per week toward making up this deficiency.

Secretary Jas. M. Rhoades gave a brief account of his attendance at the meeting of the secretaries of California, held at Palo Alto recently.

Dr. Jessie A. Russell reported that an additional amount of $225 has been received from the tag day drive held a week last Saturday, the proceeds of which were to go to swell the fund for the electrification of the Glendale avenue line. This amount brings the grand total for tag day up to more than $1,400, it is understood.

It was decided to appoint a committee of three to confer with members who are in arrears in their dues to the chamber.

It was also decided to change the name of the chamber from "The Glendale, California, Chamber of Commerce" to "The Chamber of Commerce of Glendale, California."

Society

LODGES — CLUBS — CHURCHES

LIVE COLE CLASS TO HOLD MEETING

A meeting of the Live Cole class of Central Christian church will be held Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer B. Miller, 434 Burchett street. Plans will be furthered for the country fair to be held October 20 at the church and every member is urged to be present.

LYDIA CLASS TO MEET THURSDAY

The Lydia class of the First Presbyterian church will meet Thursday afternoon at 2:30 with Mrs. J. M. Fife, 517 North Jackson street. This is their regular business and social meeting.

SISTERHOOD CLASS OF METHODIST CHURCH MEETS

The Sisterhood class of the First Methodist church will meet in the church parlors Thursday afternoon at 2:30, for their first fall business and social meeting. Every member is urged to be present and bring a friend. All old members are especially requested to be present.

HENRIETTA BANCROFT GROUP MEETS

The Henrietta Bancroft group of the Women's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist church held their first business meeting of the year in the church parlors Tuesday afternoon. The election of officers for the year was as follows: Mrs. L. P. Clover, leader; Mrs. C. F. Godfrey, assistant leader; Mrs. O. E. Pearson, secretary; Mrs. Edwin Kretchmer, treasurer; mite box secretary, Mrs. J. F. Swisher; supply secretary, Mrs. Ina Randall.

Following the business meeting, plans were made for the work for the coming year, which will be for the David and Margaret home at La Verne.

This home is for orphan children from the ages of 2 to 12 years and at present there are 85 in the home. Mrs. E. O. Fitz of 308 North Louise street, a member of the group gave $75 for the care of the children. This is a great credit to the group and to Mrs. Fitz. The group is planning for a visit to this home in the near future.

GLENDALE ADVANCEMENT TO MEET TOMORROW

A meeting of the Glendale Advancement association will be held at the Broadway Inn Thursday noon. The principal speaker of the meeting will be Dr. J. E. Pomeroy, county health physician, who will speak on the sewer question.

Reports from the various committee, including the railroad and the hotel committee will be given, and other matters of interest to Glendale as a whole will be taken up for discussion. Everyone in Glendale is invited to attend this meeting.

THEOSOPHY TO BE DISCUSSED HERE

Speaking last night on "Evolutionary Creation," Rev. Charles Hampton, of Portland, Ore., stated the various arguments against reincarnation and then rebutted them in a very logical and scientific manner, proving that rebirth on the earth plane is a necessary part of the great evolutionary plan of the universe. He declared it was definitely a Christian teaching because in speaking of John the Baptist, Christ said: "And if you will receive it, this is Elias, which was for to come."

This evening Mr. Hampton will discuss the "Development of Soul Powers." He will deal with free-will and fate, thought power, concentration, meditation and the building of soul powers. He will answer the question "Can the facts of life be harmonized with the belief in Divine justice?"

The series of three free lectures under the auspices of the Glendale Theosophical lodge will close this evening. A cordial invitation is extended to the public.

Music Section to Meet on Friday Afternoon

The first fall meeting of the Music Section of the Tuesday Afternoon club will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30, at the home of the curator, Mrs. Warren Roberts, 617 East Elk avenue. Assistant hostesses are Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, Mrs. Helen I. Campbell, and Mrs. Frank Weller. All members are urged to be present as matters of importance are to be discussed.

An interesting program has been arranged as follows: pianist, Alma M. Geiger; vocalist; Beatrice Huntley Cavanah; harpist, Enona Hopkins; violinist-composer, Julius Kranz. France Goldwater will speak on "The Influence of the Club on American Composers."

by Louis XIV. in 1865. Protestants became outlaws and their ministers became subject to the death penalty. Thousands of Huguenots eluded royal officials and fled the country, to England, Prussia, and America.

Deaths and Funerals

MRS. THERESA WATSON

Mrs. Theresa Watson of 530 North Central avenue passed away this morning at a local hospital, after an illness of several months. Mrs. Watson was taken to the hospital about two weeks ago, where she underwent an operation. For the next ten days she seemed to improve and death came suddenly.

She is the wife of John L. Watson, formerly connected with the Glendale Sheet Metal Works, and leaves, besides her husband, one son, Louis.

Mrs. Watson was a woman of noble character and dearly loved by all who knew her.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 from the Little Church of the Flowers, with interment at Forest Lawn Memorial park. Jewel City Undertaking Co. in charge.

R. S. Goodwin

Funeral services for R. S. Goodwin of Montrose were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Edmonds of the First Presbyterian church officiating.

BUSINESS WOMEN ADDRESSED BY MISS NOBLE

Dr. Laura Brown Reports on County Federation Club Work

Many business matters were discussed at the meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club held Tuesday evening at club headquarters, 126 South Maryland avenue, and a fine address on the work and aims of the N. E. A. was made by Miss Carrie Noble, principal of the Wilson Avenue Intermediate.

Dr. Laura Brown, the president, told of the county federation meeting attended by herself, Mrs. Elsie Williams and Mrs. Margaret Biggs and of the vocational and placement work there reported as having been carried on in Pasadena. Mrs. George U. Moyse, chairman of vocational work for the local club said her committee had deferred organization until she could get in touch with Miss Housam, county chairman, to arrange for co-ordination with Pasadena and Los Angeles.

Various members who participated in the tag day sale for the Glendale-Montrose railroad bonus, and who had solicited subscriptions reported and when totalled it was found that through their efforts the fund was richer by about $225.

Mrs. Mary Baxter, chairman of membership, reported net receipts of the recent benefit entertainmen given by the membership and friendship committees as $30. Mrs. Baxter also reported that the membership of the club now totals nearly 200. Other committees made satisfactory reports.

On behalf of the legislative committee, Miss Sara Pollard presented the plea that is being made to voters by the American Legion to support No. 1 and No 2 of the measures on the November ballot. No. 1 is known as the Veterans' Validating act and No. 3 as the Soldiers' Bonds act. The last named would authorize the state government to take money from the general fund and make loans to ex-service men who enlisted from the state for the purpose of buying homes or farms, the loans to be granted on long time and at 5 per cent interest, the fund to be a revolving one. Miss Pollard offered a resolution indorsing the two measures which was unanimously adopted.

Miss Noble made a fine resume of the accomplishments and purposes of the National Educational association as presented in the annual convention in Boston, to which she was sent as the delegate of the Glendale City Teachers' club. She explained that the organization ha sa membership of 100,000 teachers, the flower of the profession, and that about 10,000 werepresent at the convention. Such a gathering of scouls with common interests and aims could not fail to be tremendously inspiring. Boston laid itself out to provide a big celebration for the Fourth of July, but the day was a rainy one, which wrecked all the plans made. "The democratic awakening in education" and training for citizenship were the themes of all meetings. The constant urge, she said, was that teachers should be better fitted for their jobs and get into the spirit of their jobs. If that could be brought about, it was admitted many of the problems of education would be solved. The past niglect of country schools was discussed and there was general agreement on the proposition that to educate well one half of the country was a good thing but to leave the other half uneducated was undemocratic. Citizenship, it was declared, was the goal of education and the importance of trained leadership received a great deal of consideration.

She reviewed the outstanding things for which the N. E. A. stands, its support of the Sterling-Towner bill which would provide a department of education in the national government, headed by a cabinet officer, and which also would provide for federal support of schools which would give equal advantages to city and country schools.

It stands for the teaching of law and order, of respect for authority, inasmuch as the teachers, by reason of their profession and opportunity to mould the minds of pupils are responsible to a large degree for the safety of the republic. Obedience to the constitution and all the laws of the state and nation was also stressed.

It also stands for the tenure in office of teachers so long as they conduct themselves properly and give good service. It stands for the teachers' pension or retirement fund which has been established in this state and which is supported largely by deductions from the salaries of the teachers.

It stands for higher salaries for the lower grade teachers so that the woman specially adapted to kindergarten work will not be tempted to seek a high school position for which she is not as well fitted because of the higher salary.

The schools of the United States are its biggest, most important enterprise, she declared, employing 800,000 men and women who are teaching the future citizens of this country.

MRS. CYRIL ROSS TELLS OF WORLD WIDE VISION

Mrs. Cyril Ross was the speaker at Missionary night held Tuesday at the Presbyterian church, her subject being "World-wide Vision." She told in an unusually interesting manner of her experiences as a practicing physician engaged in missionary work in Korea.

All this week meetings are being held at the church, as is the usual custom the week preceding communion service, and each night is given over to a different subject.

Rev. and Mrs. Ross, who have spent 25 years in the Orient, but who are now on a furlough in the United States, expect to leave in a few weeks for the Orient to resume their work, which is federated with that of other denominations besides Presbyterian.

Mrs. Ross has seen years of interesting development in Korea. She related many interesting things in regard to her work as it was carried on 25 years ago in the organization of schools, colleges, dispensaries, hospitals, chapels and churches, which are such vital units of Korean life today.

Dr. J. M. MacInnis is the speaker for tonight and Thursday is Sunday school night. The speaker will be Dr. David R. Boyd, former president of the state university of Oklahoma. "Family night" will be held Friday, and Dr. Cortland Myers, formerly of Tremont temple, Boston, will be the speaker. Each of these speakers have an interesting message to deliver.

PURELY PERSONAL

Wm. J. Schaefle, editor of the American Globe, of 1859 South San Fernando Boulevard, Glendale, returned from Las Vegas, Nevada, where he attended the wedding of his niece Miss Ruth Schuyler, who was married to Mr. Albert E. Cahlan, last Sunday in the Christ Episcopal Church.

While in Las Vegas, Mr. Schaefle, also investigated the Boulder Canyon project and inspected ranches in the vicinity that are being irrigated by artesian wells.

Mrs. Charles Moser and daughter, Betty, from Palo Alto, wife and daughter of Prof. Moser of Stanford university, spent Sunday and Monday at the Mercer home, 319 North Jackson street. A pleasant visit was enjoyed, as Mr. Mercer is a graduate of Stanford and it was there that he became acquainted with Prof. and Mrs. Moser.

Pacific-Southwest Review

By D. H. SMITH

Manager Brand Boulevard Branch Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank

The growing financial independence of the Pacific Southwest and the increasing interest on the part of the general public in the relation between banking situation and the general prosperity of the territory is causing an increasing interest in the statement of condition of banks, which are published five times a year upon call, from the Comptroller of the Currency in the case of national banks, and from the State Superintendent of Banks in the case of state banks. As a general rule these calls are made simultaneously.

A bank statement of condition is nothing more than a balance sheet, similar in character to the balance sheet that is issued by any business, because of the peculiar character of the banking business.

There are two prime factors which a banker must always consider in the handling of business and these factors are reflected in the balance sheet. The first of these is that there shall be sufficient cash available at all times to insure the payment of all deposits which are called for in any one day and that there shall be a sufficient amount of investments coming to maturity within a comparatively short time to take care of any abnormal withdrawal of deposits. The second is that the loans and investments made by the bank be of such character as to insure the safety of deposits.

A bank is the one business organization which takes a real pride in its liabilities, for its deposits are liabilities, consisting of promises to pay the balance due to the depositors upon demand, upon specific days, or upon notices to withdraw at the end of a certain period. Consequently, the liability side of a bank statement is always of particular interest.

It consists primarily of two major groups of items and of a third, or miscellaneous group. The first of these consists of the capital stock, the surplus and the undivided profits and of such other profit and loss items as reserves for taxes, interest, discount collected in advance, etc.

The second consists of the deposits of the customers and the third of such items as bank notes outstanding, acceptance liabilities and miscellaneous items. The first of these groups represents the interest of the owners of the bank, the capital stock being the liability of the bank for the investment by stockholders; surplus being the accumulated profits which have been set aside in a surplus account, rather than being dispersed in the form of dividends; and the undivided profits being profits which have not as yet been distributed either in the form of dividends or as an increase in the surplus of the institution.

These items really represent the amount that has been invested by the owners in the business and as is the case in all business they represent liabilities which are secondary to the preferred liability to depositors, providing a margin of safety for depositors.

For example, at the time of the called statement of September 15, 1922, the First National Bank of Los Angeles and the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank had aggregate deposits of approximately $178,000,000, and aggregate capital, surplus and undivided profits of in excess of $18,700,000. These capital accounts provided funds for the maintenance of assets approximately 10 1-2 per cent in excess of deposits, thereby providing ample margin of safety against any possible shrinkage of assets for depositors.

'ETERNAL FLAME' AT THE T. D. & L.

"The Eternal Flame" with the beautiful and emotional Norma Talmadge was the big thing that attracted crowds to the T. D. L. Theatre last night where it will be repeated again tonight and tomorrow.

Norma Talmadge as the Duchess of Langeasis does some of the finest emotional acting of her career in the highly dramatic scenes enacted in the torture chamber shown in "The Eternal Flame."

General de Montriveau takes the duchess to the torture chamber where he made revengeful plans to brand her forehead with the mark of shame. With the loss of his love, the coquette weakened to the knowledge of her own heart and wildly abandoned herself to the branding iron as proof that she was hereafter his. But at the last moment, when she had pushed aside her hair so that the white hot iron might sink into her forehead, de Montriveau's strength failed him. Throwing the iron aside, he decided to give her one more opportunity.

Conway Tearle, as de Montriveau also gives a splendid histrionic performance.

SPLENDID ISOLATION

An English financier of international repute is now in the United States. Much that he says is of value and interest. The following among his remarks stands out with particular clearness:

"Splendid isolation is a dream. You quickly discover it to be a dream when you observe how unwilling to be ignored is the country which enjoys a splendid isolation."

So far as the United States is isolated by distance, every effect of invention, every influence of commerce, tends to change a condition, that, however pleasing in theory, as a matter of practice, is impossible. No individual, save the crusty and useless hermit, wishes to be alone in the world. No nation marked by ambition, great in resource, could be imagined as desirous of imitating the hermit. A certain independence is conceived to be an inherent right, but this does not mean that any portion of civilization should exist apart from the rest, scornful and aloof. The endeavor to do so would be to make such people alien to interests that should be, and are, held in common.

The doctrine of withholding aid and counsel from governments in other lands, is not a friendly, but an enemy doctrine. If it could be translated into action, it would mean condemnation from peoples with whom amicable relations are essential. It is not within the scope of human achievement to do business with the world, to sail its seven seas, send products abroad, buy from others, sustain diplomatic connections, and yet be isolated. This is not to be regretted in the least. Isolation is in no respect desirable, nor does intelligence teach that it should be sought.

ONE REAL GRIEVANCE

Not long ago an American consul lost his job because of the allegation that he was throwing his influence in favor of American commerce. The British complained about his activity and, preferring not to have any diplomatic row about it, the consulate was vacated and the key turned over to the landlord. So one incident was closed.

Now there is complaint from British sources that Americans are using American ships both to ride in and to move their goods about the ocean generally. They are doing this in spite of the fact that ships of other nationalities are ready to transact all the carrying of the seven seas. Real as this grievance may be, there does not seem to be a thing that may be done about it, not a thing.

This country once had a merchant marine, but permitted it to languish and almost die. For many years there had been talk of its revival, and at last the revival is here. This is a condition not especially pleasing to competitors. Their discomfort is accentuated by the fact that during the lapse of the American ocean trade, they had come to regard themselves as having a monopoly. For some reason not clearly defined they seemed to regard this monopoly as based on sacred and unassailable right, and to belong to them in perpetuity. Thus they look upon the American ocean carrier as a trespasser.

Probably experience is destined to change a view which has so frail support in the logic of commerce. Americans produce much that enters into the traffic of the world. If they choose to transport their products on their own vessels, protest is silly rather than effective.

A JUST RULING

The administration has decreed that ships under the American flag shall carry no liquor. Not only must they refrain from carrying it for consumption aboard, but the mere act of transporting it is inhibited. At the same time foreign vessels are forbidden to bring liquor into the ports, or into the jurisdiction of the United States. The rule is sweeping, as it ought to be, and the spirit of it conforms to the sentiment of the people as expressed in the Eighteenth amendment.

When the United States voted prohibition into the constitution, it hardly was with the idea that one class of citizens, the average man, of only moderate means, was alone to be hampered in the quest for intoxicants. Prohibition cannot be a success until complete. To be complete it must apply as stringently to the rich tourist as to the humble citizen who stays at home. The former, often with his own cellar well stocked, had only to go beyond the three mile limit to be able to order openly from the bar. At four miles he could be as roaring drunk as he chose. While this was not good for him, it was unfair to the people left on land. They could not drink without breaking the law. When they foolishly broke the law, they were likely to be killed by the poisonous stuff which was all that they found available.

The public wants the prohibition law enforced. The vociferous demand for a lessening of the restrictions it imposes is audible. In this the public recognizes the meaningless babble of politicians. And the public wants the law not merely enforced, but enforced fairly and impartially. No reason appears for exempting any class from the operations of the law, nor for permitting a floating saloon to do that which it is illegal to do ashore.

"MAKING CRIME INVITING"

According to an official connected with the Tombs prison in New York, "crime is made too inviting." In this manner he seeks to account for its increase. He had in mind the baseball games at Sing Sing, and other features that tend to make the life of a convict less intolerable than it would be in the absence of recreation. The logic of his statement is defective. Persons desirous of playing baseball have abundant opportunity without being locked within four walls. The official loses sight of the fact that love of liberty is instinctive. It is strong in every individual of normal mentality. It is the last thing such an individual would relinquish. For liberty he is ready to fight or to die. If there is a chance of escape, the prisoner will take advantage of it, though it be a desperate chance. That so doing he would be debarred from participation in a ball game with other convicts, would not have a deterrent influence.

In former days prisons were places of dread and horror. They were ruled by brutal methods. No regard was shown for the health of the inmate. He was forced to exist under unspeakable conditions. He was doomed to silence, to idleness, and upon him was heaped every degradation that cruelty could devise. The result was that he emerged, if ever, a wreck, ruined in body and soul, his dominant passion that of hatred for every phase of social order. He had not been reformed, but in every respect made worse. He had not been rendered less dangerous, but more potent for evil.

Society has more sense than in the old days. It desires to protect itself from the criminal, not merely by restraining him forcibly, but by reforming him. Therefore, during moments of leisure at Sing Sing, baseball is played. The theory that this encourages crime, falls little short of being absurd.

THE AMERICAN MIND

By DR. FRANK CRANE

George Meredith once said: "I have always admired the Americans for this—that they are adventurous, wisely experimental. They stand for their fancy, as the man of the turf says, and it makes for bold opinion."

Dr. Frank Crane

When Meredith gave an estimate on any subject it was worth considering. And probably in the above sentence he has diagnosed the American mind correctly.

The American mind is adventurous. There is such a thing as adventurous thought, but it is not common. There is probably more inertia in ideas than in solid matter.

People as a rule go on thinking what people as a rule have been thinking, much as the planets continue their set orbits through space.

And adventurous thinking is as dangerous as adventurous acting. That, perhaps, is why it is so valuable. No great discoverres and no great advancement in life are made without risk.

A characteristic saying of the street among Americans is, "I will try anything once."

We are a new people, a young race, and, like all young things, our thoughts fly forward.

The mind of Europe and the East dwells a good deal upon ancestors. The mind of America dwells most on the coming generation.

For us the present is the egg of the future. For the Old World the present is the fruit of the past.

I speak of tendencies, for, of course, there are many backward-minded Americans and many forward-minded Europeans.

For all that there is an immense amount of conversation in America, which is not always appreciated. While we are not held back by tradition so much, we are held back by practicality. We are not so much concerned as to whether a proposed plan has worked in the past, but we are quite concerned as to whether it will work now.

We love to exercise our imagination, but we are always checking it up by results.

It is not outworn conventions and sham respectability that constitute our balance wheel so much as an intense pragmatism.

It is this that keeps us from stepping off the solid rock of democracy on to the cloud and rainbow of socialism. It is this that renders bolshevism an impossibility in America.

For those that have been tethered to traditionalism can break away, and when they do they are likely to break their necks. But those who are restrained by practicality are rarely inclined to break away. Common sense is a better safeguard than custom against the recklessness of opinion.

QUERIES

(Find the error in this article)

"Fear Me"

O. N., Cincinnati, O.: "Will you kindly let me know through your column whether the expression, 'I fear me' is correct?" Answer: The New Standard Dictionary defines the verb fear, in part, as follows: ". . . sometimes used reflexively. I have wrestled vainly with the Lord, And stubbornly, I fear me. Southey Joan of Arc." However, I fear that I shall take cold is preferable to I fear me I shall take cold.

Singular or Plural Verb?

E. A. Appleton, New York City: "Will you kindly settle an argument through your valuable column? In the sentence, 'The forty-two dollars and seventy-five cents have been charged through' should the verb be in the plural as quoted, or should it be in the singular? A. claims that usage has made the forty-two dollars and seventy-five cents a collective noun and therefore should take with it a singular verb. B. claims that if a singular verb were employed the subject of the sentence would have to be 'sum' or 'amount'. Thus, the sum, $42.75, has been charged through." Answer: The singular verb is correct in the foregoing sentence. While the use of "sum" or "amount" is correct, it is unnecessary, as $42.75 is considered as a unit.

"Pair," Singular or Plural?

W. B. S., West Englewood, N. J.: "Will you kindly publish in your column the correct form of the following expression: 'Here is a couple of letters, or 'here are a couple of letters'? In one of this morning's papers I observed in a news item the following: 'An elevator man called a policeman and the pair were rushed to the Knickerbocker hospital.' Is were the proper verb? Also, would you say: 'The old pair was ill'?" Answer: Correct: Here are two letters. The word couple means two united; as, a married couple. In the second example were is correct; as, the pair were rushed to the hospital; the old pair were ill.

"The Come-Back"

The spirit that will not stay down.

It may be knocked down but it gets up again.

You may be knocked down many a time in life.

An untoward incident may do it.

A misfortune, a mischance, a miscalculation, any one of them may knock you down.

* * *

It isn't pleasant to be knocked down, either.

The human being likes to stay on his feet.

He prefers to stand up and go along in the usual way.

* * *

But in a good many instances it takes a knock-down to make you "come back" strong.

To develop the "come-back" spirit,

The spirit that may be knocked down but refuses to stay down.

That gets up again ready to renew the battle.

* * *

The "come-back" spirit is the one that wins.

You can't expect to get through life without a knock-down,

Perhaps many of them.

If you have no come-back you are like a stone that is rolled over.

You stay where you fell.

* * *

The "come-back" spirit in you is the elasticity.

Like that of the rubber ball.

Bounce it on the ground and it bounces back at you.

It is the spirit that gives you the "come-back."

And "come-back" is much a matter of spirit,

* * *

We have recent instances of the "come-back" spirit.

In the world's series of the great American sport.

Where a pitcher was a cast-off.

A discard.

Kicked out.

Considered of no more use in the sport.

Enough to break his spirit or yours if you were engaged in that business.

* * *

But he refused to be a discard or a cast-off.

He had a spirit that would not be broken.

He was knocked down but he got up again.

"Came-back."

And made good.

For he won the struggle against heavy odds.

* * *

You can come back.

Whatever the mischance or the misfortune or the mistake or the difficulty.

However flat you may have been laid on your back.

However much sand there is in your hair and dust on your clothes and however many bruises you sustain.

* * *

You may not come back to the same high state you occupied.

But you may come back to a useful state.

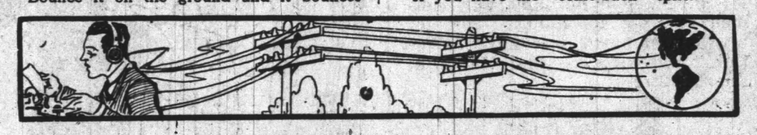
If you have the "come-back" spirit.



SONGS OF THE POST'S POETS

"When We Are Parted"—By Hamilton Aide (1828-1906)

When we are parted let me lie
In some far corner of thy heart,
Silent, and from the world apart,
Like a forgotten melody:
Forgotten of the world beside,
Cherished by one, and one alone,
For some loved memory of its own;
So let me in thy heart abide,
When we are parted.

When we are parted keep for me
The sacred stillness of the night;
That hour, sweet Love, is mine by right;
Let others claim the day of thee!
The cold world, sleeping at our feet,
My spirit shall discourse with thine—
When stars upon thy pillow shine,
At thy heart's door I stand and beat,
When we are parted.

OCTOBER'S STARS

By ISABEL M. LEWIS, of United States Observatory

When the first sharp frosts of October evenings tinge the green of summer foliage with autumn colors, the annual procession of the stars brings back to us the familiar Northern Cross in Cygnus and the Great Square in Pegasus. The bowl of the Big Dipper now rests on the northwestern horizon and the W-shaped group of Cassiopeia has taken its place high in the heavens above the pole.

Brilliant Vega in Lyra, one of the brightest stars of the northern hemisphere, still shines like a diamond in the western sky. Nearby in the southwest may be seen Altair in the constellation of Aquila with its two attendant stars one on either side. Job's Coffin, formed by a small diamond-shaped group of four faint stars in the constellation of Delphinus, shines a little to the northeast of Altair. Within this small constellation lies the most distant known object in the heavens, a faint globular star cluster visible only in the most powerful telescopes. The light from this cluster, it is estimated, takes about two hundred and twenty thousand years to travel to the earth with a speed of 186,000 miles per second.

The Milky Way now stretches diagonally across the heavens from the northeast to the southwest, a broad, luminous belt studded with countless faint stars. Directly in its path and almost in the zenith in our latitudes at this time of year lies the Northern Cross in Cygnus. At this point there is a dark rift in the Milky Way that separates it into two distinct branches which do not unite again until they have reached a point below the southwestern horizon. The first-magnitude star Deneb, or Alpha Cygni, marks the top of the Northern Cross and the beautiful blue and gold double star, Albireo, its foot. Viewed telescopically this is one of the most beautiful regions of the Milky Way.

The Great Square in Pegasus lies close to the meridian at this time and a little to the southeast of the Northern Cross. The star in the northeastern corner of the Great Square belongs to the constellation of Andromeda which is outlined by three bright stars nearly in a straight line stretching from this point toward the northeast. Just beyond, in the path of the Milky Way, lies the constellation of Perseus now close to the northeastern horizon. According to mythology, Pegasus was the Winged Horse that bore Perseus to the rescue of the maiden Andromeda who had been chained to the rocks to be devoured by the sea-monster Cetus, now coming into view above the eastern horizon.

In the southern part of the heavens at this time of year may be seen the brilliant and beautiful Fomalhaut in Piscis Australis, the constellation of the Southern Fish. Standing alone in a solitary position, far removed from the bright stars and conspicuous groups farther north, this star with the strange name appears as a visitor from a strange land, the Southland, where the heavens are studded with many strange groups our eyes have never seen.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

MAY HE ALWAYS BE PRESENT

[New York Commercial]

Senator Smoot has served notice in the senate that in future he would refuse unanimous consent to permit printing in the Congressional Record of political speeches of senators not delivered in the senate. Hereafter senators who ask leave to extend their remarks in the Record will have to wait till they see the Utah senator going out of the door. The saving to the government will be tremendous, and it may be that it will be possible to lay off a number of employees from the government printing office. Storage space will be conserved and the burden on the mails greatly relieved. These are practical considerations. These speeches neither add to nor subtract from the sum of human knowledge. Nobody ever reads them anyway,, but it will certainly fret those crossroads statesmen who will hereafter have to pay for printing their own campaign material.

It is quite possible that it may have a boomerang effect in that the senators will insist on actually delivering these speeches in the hope of either delivering them into the Record that way or else tiring Senator Smoot so that he will go out of the room and make it possible for unanimous permission to be obtained.

It is decreed by the Boston police that women can smoke on the streets of that city if they want to. Now that they know that they can, probably they won't care to do so. At least few have so far been observed lighting up as they marched along the sidewalk.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

An appliance has been perfected by which naval men expect to acquire as complete a knowledge of the bottom of the ocean as it is possible to have of dry land. It is not a matter of plumb and line at all, but something highly scientific. Research work is about to begin along the coast of California.

HENRY JAMES

As a rule the ocean deeps must be regarded as a mystery. Far down, farther than any life such as is familiar to the seses could be sustained, life does exist. Upheavals of the ocean floor have sent unknown organisms to the surface, there to perish quickly. There are fish afloat beneath the point at which diving in armor is possible. When these come up, the lessening of atmospheric pressure sometimes causes them to burst.

One of Kipling's most effective sea tales is of a monster shape cast up from the remote slime of the ocean floor, blind, and marked by the clustering barnacles of ages. Of course the story was pure fiction, and yet there might in known facts, have been found a shadowy basis for it.

As to what may be on the ocean floor, a mile or more below the waves, not even science has determined. There the cold is intense, and the pressure beyond calculation. It may be assumed that water a mile down is not subject to the commotion that marks it at the top. Still and awful it must be, until from the suddenly gaping crust there bursts volcanic heat, and a mighty commotion rocks the islands above.

Would a ship, sinking where the water is a mile or more between it and the floor, actually reach the floor? Or would it reach a plane at which gravity could not overcome the resistance, and so hang suspended in mid-water?

The navy will investigate in aid of navigation. It is not hunting for strange things. Its interest in an ocean floor too remote by any possibility to impede a battleship, possibly is not keen.

* * *

The Philippines are factors in a large ocean trade. They buy and they sell, their products going far, and their orders reaching many countries. The Philippines belong to the United States, having as a matter of sentiment, been purchased from Spain, when by all rules of war they already belonged to this country. It would be natural to suppose that most of the Philippines trade would be carried in American bottoms. It is not so, Americans scarcely having a "look in."" Perhaps this is not bad management. If not, it is hard luck.

According to experts the highest educational efficiency of the public schools belongs to the west. Arizona is given first place, Nevada second, and California third. It's all in the family anyhow, Arizona and Nevada belong witn California in an intimate social group.

The secretary of the morals efficiency commission of Los Angeles proclaims that one-fourth of the hotels of that city, and 10 per cent of the lodging houses are used for immoral purposes. This would seem to the casual observer to be letting the lodging houses off mildly. Yet very often they who shout the loudest over the presence of sin, are so faithful in their scrutiny, that ultimately it is hard to differentiate them from the sinners. Many an individual sets out in quest of evil, through an evil impulse surging within himself. It's very sad, but it is so.

A resident of Pomona is said to be heir to a portion of an estate situated in the heart of New York city, and valued at many millions. If he is assured of this doubtless he is nappy. Others have gone through such periods of delightful anticipation without getting anything more substantial. Instances in which vast fortunes await a claimant are common, but instances in which they do more than await, are virtually unknown.

The story is told of a man who had a good position, where he was well-paid, and trusted. He became enamoured of a divorcee, fair, of course. Upon this female he showered all his earnings, almost going hungry himself. His affection growing faster than his income, he proceeded to steal for his ladylove, so now he is in jail, whither such tactics naturally lead. But the sad part is to come. He sent a request that she call upon him, and she remarked to the messenger "I should say not! The poor boob!" And while not upholding the beautiful she brute in the least,. it must be admitted that "The poor boob" in a descriptive sense, is right.

Sitting at the telephone in Cleveland a man called up Havana and held a brief conversation. Then in turn, not leaving the chair, he talked with Salt Lake, San Francisco and way stations. The exhibition of the prowess of the telephone was wonderful. From one distant city came a receipt for making mint julep, which would have been wonderful, too, had the ingredients been handy.

There seems to be a surprising disregard of the danger of electrocution in the bath room. In cities where proper attention is given to safety in this regard, it is unlawful to have an electric light so placed in a bathroom that it is possible to touch it by hand. It must be out of reach, and controlled only by a push button.

Seldom is a more singular tragedy to be recorded than that involving the deaths of hunters near San Bernardino. Without an instant's warning one man was seized of homicidal mania, and before he could be checked, had killed two. He had entertained no ill will for either. Observers shot him. There was no other way.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Going down in the elevator this morning I heard a man behind me talk about "small town stuff."

"They will never do any business," he said, loudly. "No enterprise there. Too slow to get out of their own road. As soon as I saw their manager I had him pegged.

"'There's a small town man,' I said."

If the other fellow had not been bigger than I and if I thought his bean would respond to cultivation I would have taken him out to explain what a perfectly marvelous jackass he had made of himself. This imbecile, it was evident, thought that a "small town man" was one who would not open a bottle of synthetic gin with every casual caller. If I had had time—and courage—I would have said:

"If you are a big town man, why aren't your clothes new and neatly pressed? Big town men know the value of a good appearance. They are as careful of creases and shoes as a belle is of her eyebrows. Why isn't your collar of the latest fashion and your necktie a fashionable one? Why do you not talk in well-modulated tones instead of bawling like a motherless calf? What's the matter with your hat?"

He would have been furious, of course. He has always been proud of being a big town man. Yet he was a cheap, loud-mouthed, shabby-genteel rouster. Big towns are full of that sort, and small towns are sedatively full The picking is better in big towns, because there are more boobs.

The small town man is more apt to know his business than the big town man. Being a smaller business, he can get all over it instead of being locked up in a closet. He is under the microscope of neighborly scrutiny, too, and both conduct and conversation are modelled with that fact in mind. He is apt to be a builder rather than a gambler. And he is not often imposed on by human two-spots.

You see, I detected the note of pain in the voice of the poor counterfeit who talked in the elevator about a "small town man."

GLENDALE PHOTOGRAPHERS AND THEIR SUBJECTS IN THE BEST BABY CONTEST

Giving Their Services Free, the Local Art Studios Record Hundreds of Smiling Baby Faces

If any one wants to know what the photographers of Glendale have been doing since the 17th of August, they have only to read the following lists of baby pictures, which have been taken by the Ostrom Studio on East Broadway, the Ellias Studio on Cypress and Brand, the Browne Studio on North Brand, and the Dolberg Studio on West Broadway.

The work accomplished by these artists was a gigantic task, and the best thing of all was the fact that they could not slight a single sitter. Every picture was a work of art, and it was all done for the babies of Glendale. It was a collection which should be in the Chamber of Commerce as an exhibit of Glendale's resources in the photographic line, and also as an exhibit of the babyhood of our fast-growing city.

SIKI, SENGALESE, WHO BEAT CARPENTIER FOR WORLD'S LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE

Battling Siki, the dusky boxer who dethroned Georges Carpentier by defeating the former French idol in the sixth round of a scheduled twenty-round bout, is the latest Paris sensation. Siki weighs only 173 pounds and is 5 feet, 11 inches tall. Harry Wills, the colored heavyweight champion, would have a great advantage in weight and reach over Siki.

HOLLAND INVADED

by Louis XIV in 1672, the southern part of Holland being taken. However, William of Orange flooded the country by opening the sluices in the dikes and thus saved Amsterdam. The peace concluded six years later left Holland intact and gave France Franche-Comte.

Strassburg was taken by Louis XIV during the next 10 years.

MRS. CAMPBELL TELLS OF HER PRIDE IN CLUB

New President of Tuesday Afternoon Club Delivers "Inaugural" Address

Amid a little garden of flowers that marked her inauguration, Mrs Dan Campbell delivered her message yesterday at the meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon club in the Masonic temple.

She gave thanks for the floral tokens by declaring she wished she had the money they had cost for the club fund.

The address follows:

Members of the T. A. Club:—As I greet you this afternoon, I am impressed with two important facts. First, I cannot help but feel the pride which comes with being the president of this organization. To be president or any other officer of this club spells honor, and I cherish the position which you have conferred upon me as one of the greatest pleasures of my life. And second, I am impressed with the responsibility of my office—not in any sense that I feel it a burden. Rather, on the other hand, to assume the responsibilities I have mentioned is a great pleasure for me; but, without being intoxicated with blissful blindness, I must admit that there will be certain responsibilities which we must meet.

I believe one has a right to be proud of the T. A. Club. There are some here today who will recall our modest beginning. It was in 1904, eighteen years ago, that a small group of women in Glendale saw the necessity of a Woman's club. They were those women who did not have the interests of self foremost, but rather were moved by a spirit of unselfishness and a desire to do good. They saw the opportunity, and the proof that such opportunity existed is to be found in the splendid and healthy growth of our club, until today we have an active organization of members ready, willing, and able to take that forward step which will continue to spread the name of the T. A. Club, together with its helpful work. Just as our beloved city of Glendale has continued to grow during those last eighteen years, so has the T. A. Club. With every year we have added new members, because we have had something attractive to offer. The club has stood for eighteen years with the club colors of green and gold never fading, and each group of officers and members has had an intense vision of some day owning a real club house. As our effort to have that dream materialize, and with that goal before us, we have purchased property, sold property, given parties, bazaars, dinners, musicales, and what not—until now we can see our club home rising bigger and better than our wildest dreams or flights of imagination could ever picture. Is that not cause enough to be proud? In this home which is rising, every woman can find her place helping on committees, joining sections, all working together to reduce our indebtedness and receiving the pleasure and companionship which can be found here. Won't it be a real joy to have plenty of room, an adequate auditorium (with sloping floor), a large and pleasant dining room, a quiet place for a cup of tea (or perhaps you prefer coffee), a large well-equipped kitchen, and every other luxury and necessity that makes a real club house? Many people are comfortable for a time in rented quarters; but when one can point out a place and say, "This is our home," the great spirit which made it possible will flush in each of our faces with a burning pride. So it is going to be with us as we start out this year, knowing that before another year has passed we will be in our own home. We can do it, just as we have accomplished every other object we have set before us. To think of this club as one big family enjoying good music, listening to inspiring lectures, and placing an everlasting monument before this community will be a fitting reward for our effort. Is that not cause enough to be proud?

I am also proud of the many other activities which were inspired by the T. A. club. They are not in the least insignificant. The part played by our club in the Red Cross drives and other work during the world war is worthy of mention. Not only did the club accomplish the tasks set out for it to do, but actually inspired others to put their shoulders to the wheel when the country needs them. Justly can we claim that the present Carnegie Library here in Glendale was fostered and mothered by this club. And what could be a better mark of accomplishment? To think that we now have a place where clean and attractive literature is at the disposal of our younger generation should make us proud of our effort along that line. Our new club home will be a harbor for the young people of our community where they can go for clean and wholesome recreation, which is probably one of our greatest needs, and will permit us to help solve one of the outstanding questions of the day—"What will become of our children?" Truly, I say, I am proud, and we should all be proud, of the T. A. Club.

And so, ladies, I come to the second fact. As I think of the responsibility of my office as well as the responsibility of the entire club, I am impressed with its solution and not its avoidance. It is the former I wish to speak to you about today.

When the world was nearly torn asunder in 1914, when the stability and very existence of our Union was threatened in 1861, when George Washington and Governor Morris were trying to satisfy the patience of those heroes at Valley Forge through a long cold winter—was it the avoidance or the solution of the responsibility which made history what it is today? Was it avoidance or solution of the problems which has permitted you and me to be here now? The answer is self-evident. Had the Master Himself avoided the great responsibilities which were presented to Him, I doubt if the world would be worth living in today. All down through history those who have accomplished benefits for mankind, those who have effected happiness for nations and peoples, those who have won glory for themselves and their own, have been confronted with responsibilities the avoidance of which would have meant a darker place to live for both you and me today. And now the significant thing, I think, is the manner in which the problem was met. To me, the basis for all accomplishment, the basis for the solution of all problems, is embodied in the one word Cooperation, and if you will review the great problems I have mentioned you will see how true that statement is. Look with me, for a moment, on the recent world problems within the last year. Perhaps the greatest demonstration of the accomplishment of cooperation was in the recent Peace Conference at Washington. Its true significance is not yet fully realized. The cooperation manifested in the World War between these new contracting parties laid the foundation for further cooperation, which recently was exhibited at Washington. What of the problem between Japan and America, had it not been for this last spirit of cooperation? The two nations were drifting apart rapidly because of possible misunderstanding. We were convinced that Japan had set upon an era of imperialism and was endeavoring to annex Siberia as the first step. Since the Washington conference, all this has been disproved, and today Japan is withdrawing all troops from Siberia. A misunderstanding which might have developed into hatred has been alleviated by cooperation, and the entire world is better for it.

And so it is with our club. There are now over 700 members of this organization. The more we grow, the more becomes the need for cooperation. As we begin this new year there is nothing that impresses me as being so earnestly desired, nothing which will meet our problems quicker, and nothing which will sooner give us that pleasure which we all desire in our club. When this organization was in its infancy, cooperation was a simple matter because of the small membership. It was that splendid cooperation which made possible the Glendale Library, the success of Red Cross drives, and the foundation for our new club home. Will that spirit continue? I have every reason to believe it will. There is plenty for all to do. Every member of this club is needed for some particular place. The chain of our organization will not be any stronger than the weakest link. The president of our organization or any other, for that matter, is only a spokesman, a representative of the membership. This club is yours, and every member has a definite place. It is not an organization where the minority carry on, where a few must take it upon themselves to perform the duties of the club. No, the majority are going to continue to have the same love and loyalty, only in a greater degree. In this home which is rising, every woman can find her place helping on committees and sections. Two new sections have been inaugurated this year.

Besides the literary, music, drama, civics, legislative, parliamentary, arts and crafts, we will now have Bible and maids and young matron's sections. With over 700 women of the city of Glendale standing together for one definite purpose, we should be inspired by the possibilities of our strength. Opportunities for us to accomplish many good things are offering themselves every day. Today as in the years that have passed, we hear destructive arguments advanced. But, let us remember if our vision is restricted, we can not see the opportunities which this club can accept, but with an alert, active membership willing to cooperate not only within our organization but with those outside who are expecting things from us, we will have opened to us the door through which will flow plenty of opportunities. Our duty is to look for them—What can we do for the betterment of our community—our children and the children of others. I tell you, ladies, this day has presented a problem for our children; there is an opportunity for us there. Is the world moving so fast that our children are in danger? If so, what can we do in this community? Surely, if we cooperate we can perfect something which will help meet such problems, not only the one mentioned but any others which from time to time might suggest themselves.

Within our own organization we have a problem which comes to my mind now and which I think should be laid before the membership at this time. The matter of discussing finances may seem odious, but I believe that you would expect to hear from your president at this time on such a matter of general concern as this is. In any event I desire that you should know so that you will appreciate our responsibility and see the further need of cooperation. Members for some years past you have nourished the dream of the club house—to fulfill that dream you have contributed, you have purchased benefit tickets, you have sold articles at bazaars, etc., as a result we find it possible to proceed with the club home, but there is still much to do, and we cannot settle back at this time and think that our sacrifices are over. There are many who are ever willing, but now and then we find a good member who perhaps not realizing what financing we have to do does not understand that we are not yet through with the task, we are not yet sitting on "easy street" (if I may use the term.) I believe you know exactly what I mean. I mean friends that we have planned, we have prepared and we have now launched our club home, but there is still much to meet in the financing of this project which we were all so anxious to have. Our great desire to have it will not allow us to drop the enthusiasm and courage we have heretofore manifested. The cost of our building alone will be approximately $83,000.00 without any furnishings which means that after paying for the lot at a cost of over $17,000.00 we still have on hand $23,000.00. We have arranged for a loan of $50,000.00. Two public spirited women and eight public spirited men have agreed to sign notes for $1,000.00 each, thereby giving us a credit of $10,000.00.

In order that our building can be equipped worthy of this club it will take at least $15,000.00.

How can this be accomplished? First of all the club is selling life memberships at $100.00 each, of which there are fifty at present. We have set our mark at present for 100 life memberships, which would be an enormous lift to the club and a bargain for those lucky members. And even in addition to this we will start a contribution fund of say $500.00 to $5.00 apiece for furniture and furnishings. So you see, ladies, our responsibility is not yet over, and let us not falter after reaching the point we have.

So let us, during the coming year, keep this thought constantly before us, that without cooperation nothing can be expected to be successfully carried on, but with a cooperation we can see and have success and happiness before us. Happiness in doing that which is worth while, and enjoying under pleasant conditions and surroundings the things we most desire as club members. Let us remember that cooperation will furnish this solution of all our problems, whether present or future. Let us not look down, but keep our eyes up and ahead to 1923, when we will enter the doors of our home. Let us carry on our old motto, "In unity there is strength," with renewed vigor that we may enjoy the fullest fruits therefrom. And as I bring my remarks to a close, let me say that the cooperation which will make for your success, you may rest assured, will be as freely and generously given by your new officers as it is expected it will be forthcoming from our splendid membership.

70-FOOT AERIAL TOWERS

Two 70-foot steel self-supporting aerial towers are being erected on top of the mechanic arts building at the state college of Washington for the 500-watt broadcasting station, the only college wireless of the type in the west. By adding a telegraph key and attachment to make a continuous wave sending station, it is being equipped for wireless telegraphy also.

R. S. Floch, a teaching fellow in electrical engineering who graduated in 1918, and Hugh Allen of the same department, have qualified through government examinations as second class commercial operators, and have received their licenses.

Since the college was unable to finance the wireless station when it was proposed last spring, the Pullman Kiwanis club started a subscription list among business men and students and faculty also contributed, the Associated Students contributing largely. The Pullman chamber of commerce took up the project also, and with the help of alumni obtained sufficient contributions to give the people of the state the advantage of a wireless service with information from the various departments of instruction and investigation at the college.

No freshman at Washington state college may wear corduroy trousers. That style of garment has been selected as the mark of the upperclass men.

ORDINANCE NO. 672

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE CALLING A SPECIAL ELECTION TO BE HELD ON THE 27TH DAY OF OCTOBER, 1922, IN THAT CERTAIN TERRITORY CONTAINED WITHIN THE BOUNDARIES OF A PROPOSED MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT NO. 7, OF SAID CITY PROVIDING FOR SUBMITTING TO THE QUALIFIED ELECTORS OF SAID DISTRICT THE PROPOSITION OF INCURRING A DEBT BY THE ISSUANCE OF BONDS OF SUCH DISTRICT FOR THE PURPOSE OF ACQUIRING AND CONSTRUCTING OR ACQUIRING OR CONSTRUCTING WORKS FOR DISTRIBUTING AND SUPPLYING WATER TO THE INHABITANTS OF SUCH DISTRICT INCLUDING THE ACQUISITION OF LANDS, WATERS, WATER RIGHTS, EASEMENTS, RIGHTS OF WAY, STRUCTURES, PIPES, PIPE LINES, APPARATUS AND ALL OTHER PROPERTY AND THE CONSTRUCTING OF MAINS, CONDUITS, AND OTHER WORKS NECESSARY FOR SUCH PURPOSE; PROVIDING FOR THE ISSUANCE AND SALE OF SUCH BONDS FOR SUCH PURPOSES AND FOR THE LEVYING OF A TAX FOR PAYMENT OF SUCH BONDS; AND ESTABLISHING ELECTION PRECINCTS AND POLLING PLACES IN SAID TERRITORY AND APPOINTING THE OFFICERS OF ELECTION FOR SAID SPECIAL ELECTION.

WHEREAS, a petition was filed in the office of the City Clerk of the City of Glendale on the 28th day of August, 1922, requesting that proceedings be taken in pursuance of an Act or the Legislature of the State of California, entitled, "An Act to provide for the formation of districts within municipalities, for the acquisition or construction of public improvements, works and public utilities for the issuance, sale and payment of bonds of such district to meet the cost of such improvements and for the acquisition or construction of such improvements," approved April 20th, 1915, and amendments thereof for the purpose hereinafter stated; and,

WHEREAS, it appears and is hereby found that said petition is signed by not less than ten (10) per cent of the qualified electors residing in the territory which is proposed to be formed into the said Municipal Improvement District; and,

WHEREAS, in pursuance of said petition and of the Act of April 20th, 1915, the Council of the City of Glendale on the 14th day of September, 1922, passed an Ordinance designated as Ordinance No. 659 of said City, containing the matters prescribed by said Act, and declaring the intention of the City Council of said City to call a special election in that part of the City of Glendale contained within the boundaries of said proposed Municipal Improvement District, to be known as "Municipal Improvement District No. 7 of the City of Glendale," for the purpose of submitting to the qualified voters of said district the proposition of authorizing the issuance and sale of bonds of such district, in the manner provided for in said Act, to meet the cost of said proposed improvement, and said Ordinance was thereafter duly published as provided by law; and,

WHEREAS, no protests had been filed with the said City Clerk on the 28th day of September, 1922, which last named day was the time set in and by said Ordinance No. 659 for the hearing of protests; and,

WHEREAS, thereupon the Council of the City of Glendale acquired and now has jurisdiction to proceed further in accordance with the provision of said Act; now, therefore,

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE:

SECTION 1. That a special election be, and the same is hereby called to be held on the 27th day of October, 1922, within proposed Municipal Improvement District No. 7, of the City of Glendale, the exterior boundaries of which district are contained in said Ordinance of Intention and hereafter described for the purpose of submitting to the qualified electors in said district the proposition of incurring a debt for the issuance of bonds of such district for the purposes set forth in said Ordinance of Intention and hereinafter stated; the exterior boundaries of said district being particularly described as follows, to-wit:

Beginning at the most southerly corner of Lot 78 of Watt's Subdivision as the same is recorded in Book 5, pages 200-1 of Miscellaneous Records of Los Angeles County, California, said point being the intersection of the easterly boundary line of the City of Glendale and the northeasterly line of Wilson Avenue, thence northwesterly along the northeasterly line of Wilson Avenue to the westerly line of Lot 79 of said Watt's Subdivision; thence northerly along the westerly line of said Lot 79 to the southerly line of Sycamore Canyon Road; thence in a straight line across Sycamore Canyon Road to the most southerly corner of Lot 13, of Hodgkin's Subdivision as the same is recorded in Book 5, page 575, of Miscellaneous Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence westerly along the northerly line of Sycamore Canyon Road 999.24 feet; thence N. 12 degrees, 55 minutes West 79.86 feet; thence N. 0 degrees, 58 minutes East 583.78 feet; thence N. 0 degrees 22 minutes East 1107.48 feet to the southerly line of Lot 86, of Watt's Subdivision as the same is recorded in Book 5 pages 328-9 of Miscellaneous Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence southwesterly along the southerly line of said Lot 86 to the easterly line of Verdugo Road; thence in a straight line across Verdugo Road to a point in the Westerly line of Verdugo Road 76.70 feet north of the northerly line of Monterey Road; thence northerly along the westerly line of Verdugo Road to the westerly prolongation of the northerly line of said Lot 86; thence easterly along said westerly prolongation and along the northerly line of said Lot 86, and the northerly line of Lot 14, of Hodgkin's Subdivision as the same is recorded in Book 5, page 576, of Miscellaneous Records of Los Angeles County, California, to the easterly line of said Lot 14; thence southerly along the east line of said Lot 14 to the most northerly corner of Lot 15 of said Hodgkin's Subdivision; thence southerly along the easterly line of said Lot 15 to the northerly line of Sycamore Canyon Road; thence in a direct line to the northeast corner of Lot 10, of said Hodgkin's Subdivision; thence southerly along the easterly line of said Lot 10 to the southeast corner thereof; thence easterly along the southerly lines of Lots 9, 17 and 18 of said Hodgkin's Subdivision of the most southerly corner of Lot 21, of said Hodgkin's Subdivision; thence easterly along the southerly line of said Lot 21 to the most easterly corner thereof; thence easterly following the various courses of the northerly line of Lot 89, of Map 2, of Watt's Subdivision as per map recorded in Book 5, pages 328-9 of Miscellaneous Records of Los Angeles County, California, to its intersection with the westerly boundary line of the City of Pasadena; thence in a general southerly direction following the various courses of the westerly boundary line of Pasadena to the most northerly corner of Tract 2977, as per map recorded in Book 31, pages 28-29, Maps, Records of said County; thence southwesterly along the northwesterly line of said Tract 2977, to its intersection with the northerly boundary line of the City of Eagle Rock; thence in a general westerly direction following the various courses of the northerly boundary line of the City of Eagle Rock to the easterly boundary line of the City of Glendale; thence southerly along the easterly boundary line of the City of Glendale to the point of beginning.

SECTION 2. The objects and purposes for which said proposed indebtedness is to be incurred are the acquiring and constructing or acquiring or constructing works for distributing and supplying water to the inhabitants of such district, including the acquisition of lands, waters, water rights, easements, rights of way, structures, pipes, pipe lines, apparatus and all other property, and the constructing of mains, conduits and other works necessary for such purpose.

SECTION 3. That the estimated cost of said proposed improvement is $23,000; that the amount of the principal of the indebtedness proposed to be incurred is the sum of $23,000.00, and the rate of interest to be paid on said indebtedness shall be six (6) per cent per annum payable semi-annually.

SECTION 4. The polls of said election shall be opened at 6 o'clock a. m. of the day of the election and shall be kept open until 7 o'clock p. m., when the polls shall be closed, except as provided by Section 1164 of the Political Code of the State of California.

SECTION 5. That there shall be printed on the ballots to be used at said special election in addition to the other matters required by law, the following proposition to be voted upon, to-wit:

"Shall that certain proposed municipal improvement district known as Municipal Improvement District No. 7 of the City of Glendale incur a bonded debt of $23,000.00 for the purpose of acquiring and constructing or acquiring or constructing works for distributing and supplying water to the inhabitants of such district including the acquisition of lands, waters, water rights, easements, rights of way, structures, pipes, pipe lines, apparatus and all other property, and the constructing of mains, conduits and other works necessary for such purpose."

That opposite the above proposition to be voted on, and to the right thereof, the words, "Yes" and "No" shall be printed on separate lines with voting squares thereafter, and electors shall vote on said proposition by stamping a cross (X) in the voting square after the answer they desire to give.

SECTION 6. For the purpose of holding and conducting said special election, said district as above described shall constitute one election precinct denominated as Special Election Precinct No. 1, and the following polling place in said precinct is hereby designated and the following named election officers therefor, are hereby designated, to-wit:

Special Election Precinct No. 1: All of said Municipal Improvement District No. 7.

SECTION 7. That in all particulars not recited in this Ordinance, such election shall be held and conducted as provided by law for holding general municipal elections in said City of Glendale.

SECTION 8. The City Clerk shall certify to the passage of this Ordinance by the Council of said City, and shall, prior to the date herein fixed for such election, cause the same to be published five times and once a week, for two weeks in the Glendale Daily Press, the official newspaper of said City of Glendale and a daily newspaper, printed, published and circulated in said City.

Passed by the Council of the City of Glendale this 5th day of October, 1922.

SPENCER ROBINSON,
Mayor of the City of Glendale.
Attest: A. J. VAN WIE,
City Clerk of the City of Glendale.

Don't Be Fooled

"FOOL me once," says the proverb, "and it's shame on you. Fool me twice and it's shame on me."

Don't be fooled when it comes to spending your money. Patronize the merchants who have a reputation for fair dealing and honesty. Such motives must actuate the consistent advertiser. The man who invests real money in building a reputation for himself and his merchandise cannot afford to risk any of it by taking unfair advantage of his patrons.

The consistent advertiser pays money to tell you about his goods. He knows they are good—he backs them with his money because he believes they will satisfy. Only merchandise which is consistently good can be consistently advertised.

So advertising protects you against fraud and inferiority. It tells you what is new and good, making you a wise buyer. It saves you money by pointing out for your consideration only the best products and the best places to buy them.

Thrifty men and women read the advertisements. To them it is a plain everyday business proposition—a duty they owe to themselves and to their pocketbooks.

Don't be fooled.

Don't spend your money blindly

THE SCUDDERS RETURN FROM DES MOINES

Comrade and Mrs. A. W. Scudder of 320 West Harvard street have just returned from the National G. A. R. Encampment at Des Moines, Iowa.

They report an attendance of about 20,000 and a wonderfully interesting and harmonious session, particularly in the election of officers.

For the first time in the nineteen encampments he has attended, Comrade Scudder was able to gain admittance to the convention hall.

Others who went from here were Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Norton, Comrade Thomas Barrett and daughter, Miss Barrett; Comrade and Mrs. C. H. Clark, and Thomas Hull.

After the convention closed Mr. and Mrs. Scudder visited an old schoolmate at Osceola and a foster daughter in Omaha. They are the first to return from the convention.

OUR FOREST CAMPS

"Do to others as you would have others do to you," is an old-time saying which has helped civilization more than courts and armies. But who on earth would suppose that it is one of the most-needed of all teachings in out-of-the-way places?

The other day some forest rangers met after making horseback trips among a number of the summer camps which had cost a lot of thought and hard work to make ready for tourists last June. Now September was almost gone and these places, as one of them declared, "were a disgrace to human nature."

In some cases camp tables had been torn up, put in wagons and carried off, no one knew where. Only a few very heavy ones with legs driven deep into the ground were left. Springs had been defiled, made dangerous for people to use. Cups had been carried off and water pipes broken. Garbage and empty cans were thrown about instead of being put in the "fly-proof" pits made for their reception. Doors had been torn from the toilets for use in campfires.

There are some who know how to behave themselves in a camp. One delighted tourist came past a ranger's home in the Sierra Forest and told him "I'm going back to stay awhile at the best camp I've seen this year. By golly, it was clean—ground clean, tables clean, nothing broken, no rubbish, and even fresh wild flowers left in a can of water. Not a scrap of writing anywhere; evidently the nice folks who camped there had made everything spick and span the morning they left. Who were they?"

"Just a bunch of plain, hard working people from down in the valley," the ranger replied. "But they had books, magazines, cameras and knew the birds and flowers. I noticed that."

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

THE END OF THE SEASON

The season is over, the struggle is past,
The pennant is captured and settled at last.

The bleachers are empty, the turnstiles are shut,
The fans are all back in the old grind and rut.

The peanuts are eaten, the bottles are drained,
And heroes of swatdom new honors have gained.

The umpires are silent, the rooters are still,
And no more the cheers that we gave with a will.

The box scores are missing, no more do we race
To get the late paper and see if first place

Is held by the team we have boosted and bet,
Was the best one that baseball has ever known yet.

Ah yes, it is over, the season is done,
The steal and the slide and the screaming home run.

And how comes the Autumn, the Fall of the year,
And bleak is the diamond and lonesome and drear.

And how does the small boy with sorrowful looks
Take leave of his heroes and study in books.

The glory is gone and all faded the dreams
Into barnstorming circuits and vaudeville teams.

The banker, the merchant, the lawyer, the clerk,
The doctor, the schoolboy, may go back to work.

And business may flourish and genius may flame,
But what would it all be without the Old Game?

FOREIGN COMMERCE OF BRITISH EMPIRE

Imports in 1913 were $6,037,475,000; exports, $4,714,865,000; total, $10,752,340,000; imports in 1920 were $14,092,282,000; exports, $11,487,025,000; total, $25,597,307,000. These figures include commerce between parts of the British Empire.

NEW MERCHANT TAILOR IN CITY

Fred Minden, a merchant tailor of years of experience, will within a few days open an up-to-date tailoring establishment at 108-A South Maryland avenue, whereupon he will be ready to take care of the people of Glandale along this line. Mr. Minden was for several years connected with the largest and best tailors in San Francisco and is an expert in his line.

Only the very newest and snappiest in woolens, both domestic and foreign, will be carried by Mr. Minden. He will also take care of repair and alteration work.

GOOD AUDIENCE GREETS SINGLE TAX EXPERT

A very good audience greeted Robt. C. Macauley of Philadelphia last evening at the high school, who discussed the Single Tax Amendment 29.

It was a surprise to some that this amendment was not a special menace to home owners or would-be home owners. Instead, according to the speaker, it permits a home purchaser paying nothing down and only the rent of it every year into the public treasury, would leave money to build a house on it.

"An untaxed house built of untaxed lumber and equipped with untaxed furniture, is no menace," he urged, "but a blessing.

"That is one thing amendment 29 means," he said. "The vacant lot never makes anything nor buys anything, but, covered with weeds and papers, is itself a menace and an eyesore."

Lona Ingham Robinson, treasurer of the state campaign committee, a resident of Glendale, presided.

KOEPKE'S RETURN FROM ABROAD

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Koepke and daughter, Miss Dorothy Koepke, of 1315 South Central avenue, returned Thursday from a four months' trip abroad.

The Koepkes left June 10 for New York, where they met their son, Henry Koepke, Jr. After visiting Central America and Cuba they went to London, where they stayed about two weeks. From there they went to Holland, then to Hamburg, traveling all through Germany, down to Berlin and thence to Munich, where Mr. and Mrs. Koepke remained. Miss Dorothy and her brother went on to Oberammergau, where they saw the "Passion Play," and then on to Switzerland. From there they went to Paris, sailing down the Marne to the battlefields of France.

From Mainze, in Germany, they sailed down the Rhine to Cologne and later met their parents. They arrived home on the St. Paul from Hamburg.

The entire trip was wonderful, and they report an unusually good time.

GREATEST B. B. TEAM OF ALL TIME

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Henry Fabian is the boss of the barbers and massage experts who keep the playing field at the Polo grounds perfectly groomed. He is a good one, too.

He has one abiding devotion, one unswerving fanaticism and one idea of perfection and it is all wrapped up in the New York Giants. His loyalty for John McGraw and his Giants is too big for Polo grounds.

After his daily afternoon duty of painting fresh white lines around the plate and flicking off every pebble from the velvet-like turf, he retires to a soap box down the left field foul line, there to tell any and all listeners of the glory of the Giants and the misery of all other ball clubs.

During one of the closing games of the season, Fabian was asked to name what he would be willing to call the All-American team of all time in baseball.

"Henry," it was suggested. "You have been around baseball all your life. You have played with some of the greatest stars and you have seen all the others play down to the present time. Name the greatest man you have seen in every position."

"Well, that's a big job. Don't know as I could do it. Been lots of great ball players. I'm not one of those old timers, though, who thinks all the class was in the old days," the lantern-jawed Fabian said.

"Who was the greatest first baseman of all time?" his examiner persisted.

"Well," he drawled, slowly. "He don't look so good and ain't figured so good, but that George Kelly out there is a grand ball player. He's as good as any of them. Yes, he's a smart ball player. Take that Sisler, he hasn't any brains. Sweet ball player, yes, but he don't think. Merkle was a great ball player. So was Chase. But Kelly is a grand player."

"How about second base? Ever see any better than Collins or Lajoie?"

"Well, I tell you. He's on the ground a lot and he's kind of sloppy handling the ball, but that Frankie Frisch is a sweet ball player. Don't know but what he's as good as any of them. Great boy and a great player. Hornsby'd be a swell player if he was on the Giants. Yes, guess Frankie's about the best of them."

"What do you say about shortstops?"

"That's a tough one. I've seen lots of fine shortstops, but they always had something the matter with them. But when you come down to it, the only thing wrong with Dave Bancroft is his stomach. He ain't strong. If he had my constitution and his youth, he'd be a marvel. Dave is a great ball player. Don't know of any better."

It was suggested that it would be shorter to call the roll of the Giants and elect each as the individual star of all time in his line.

"You wouldn't be far wrong at that. Great ball club the Giants. They'll always be great as long as McGraw is on the bench, because he won't keep 'em if he can't make 'em that way."

Fabian is willing to admit that Babe Ruth is the greatest hitter of the present day, but he continues:

"I'd like to see Delehanty in there hitting at that rabbit ball." Ruth, he maintains, can be stopped by any pitcher who is smart enough to pitch to him.

"The trouble was, until the Giant pitchers showed 'em last fall, that all the pitchers tried to fool him and he killed bad balls. Brouthers and all the old sluggers told me they struck out most of the time on balls right in the middle. If those American league pitchers would go out and pitch to him, he wouldn't hit so many home runs.

"McGraw knew how to stop him and he did."
